School budget proposal is well received

By ALISON ALOISIO

A member of a local taxpayers' group said she "supports 100 percent" the SAD44 FY97 budget of $7,017,756, approved by the School Board last week.

The general fund budget, to be voted on in a district-wide referendum on May 7, would hold the line on the local assessment.

"I think they (the board) have done a wonderful job. They listened to the people and their concerns," said Marie Bartlett, Greenwood selectman and member of the School Tax Assessment Review Group.

She and other members of STAR were instrumental in getting the annual vote on the budget changed from a "no tax increase" to a referendum.

Following repeated pleas from the leaders of a parent-teacher group, Telstar Middle School has embarked on a self-improvement program.

Principal Don Mackinnon told the SAD44 School Board last week the school's staff will work to improve its curriculum, staff time, and school environment, as well as implement a teacher self-evaluation program.

In separate interviews, both board members and Mackinnon said the school needs to improve its curriculum, staff time, and school environment, as well as implement a teacher self-evaluation program.

In early February, they said that even though the school had endured two years of a middle school philosophy of keeping students in 6th and 8th grades, two years later there are rumblings in the community.

In good hands,"

Bellman said.

"Chief Brody will do a great job on things like this money-laundering mess (see below), and he should have no problem taking care of our problems with marauding wildlife."

Brody said he is delighted to be in Bethel and eager to sink his teeth into his new role.

Janet Reno: expect more arrests this week along Route 26 corridor

• Scores of Maine businesses believed to be the targets of 'Operation Penny Lane'

Monday's announcement by U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno that more than two dozen New England organized crime figures have been arrested and indicted on federal racketeering charges has sent a shiver of fear up Route 26.

In announcing the arrests, Reno alleged that since 1991 numerous small shops and stores along both Route 26 and Coastal Route 1 have played a major role in laundering hundreds of millions of dollars in drug money.

The business owners targeted by "Operation Penny Lane" are expected to face federal criminal conspiracy and tax-evasion charges.

Reno declined to reveal the details of the laundering scheme, until out-standing arrest warrants are executed.

But the chief federal law enforcement official went out of her way to credit an alert State of Maine accountant with uncovering the cash cleaning and "providing a key piece of the puzzle for our investigators."

The scheme was apparently discovered in the course of a routine traffic-corridor-cash-flow audit. Such audits are conducted whenever a developer applies for a state CDBG-Schedule L grant, an economic development tool targeted at encouraging the spread of con-

1996 Town Meetings Greenwood will have its first town manager

By MICHAEL DANIELS

In the end it wasn't even close. At their annual Town Meeting Saturday Greenwood voters overwhelmingly reaffirmed last year's decision to switch the town to a town-manager form of government.

The earlier vote was challenged in August by a petition demanding a reconsideration.

Sam Chittick, who drafted the petition, said no one he talked to while gathering signatures was in favor of hiring a town manager.

But the residents who turned out Saturday clearly were. The key article, which established pay and benefits for a manager, passed by a 5-to-1 margin (72-14).

A second article, drafted by the selectmen in response to the petition, called formally for abandoning the town-manager form of government.

It received only two votes. Arguments on both sides were largely a reiteration of arguments made last year.

Town-manager opponents, led by Chittick and former selectmen Herb Dunham, argued that Greenwood didn't need a manager and that the additional cost would be a burden to local businesses.

Chittick also played the "from Massachusetts" card, noting twice in his remarks that the woman chosen by the selectmen to be the new town manager would be moving here from Massachusetts.

Town-manager supporters argued once again that the job of managing Greenwood had become too large and too complex for part-time selectmen to handle.

"This is the 1990s," said Albert Curtis, chairman of the now-disbanded Town Manager Study Committee. "We need someone to keep up with the changes of the 90s and to keep up with the changes of the 21st century."

Selectman Harry Swan said that a year ago he had been one of those

Upton budget steady

Upton voters Saturday will consider a Town Meeting warrant that should not change the current mill rate, according to selectman Clayton Thompson.

Thompson said while the total budget and amount to be raised from taxes has not yet been totaled, "most things will remain the same. The insurance (liability and property) will increase," he said.

The current mill rate is 13.15.

Thompson said townspeople may also look again at where to school their children.

They had in the past gone to SAD44, but this year (FY96) the eight elementary students traveled instead to Errol, N.H.

The FY97 cost for an Errol education is budgeted at $86,648, while the price tag to send the students to SAD44 would be $63,289. The School Committee is recommending the Errol proposal, according to SAD44 Supt. Ron Jenkins.

The articles for the Errol option include raising $25,390 as the local share of the foundation allocation, plus $20,650 in additional local funds.

While the NOVA budget must be voted upon, there is no local share.

Municipal offices up for election include selectman, town clerk, tax collector, treasurer, road commissioner and school committee member.

County Cagnon currently holds the selectman's position, while Peter MacCulloch is town clerk, tax collector, and treasurer. Jeff Scribner is the road commissioner, and Tammy Grandin the school committee member.

Local loggers are making more calls from the wild

Skidders, chainsaws, helmets -- all standard equipment for the modern-day logger. But cellular phones?

The high-tech phones may not fit the image, but an increasing number of loggers in the Bethel area -- and across the state -- are taking them into the woods.

It's the safe thing to do, says logger Danny Long of Greenwood. He bought one about three years ago, after a member of his crew got hurt.

In that particular case, Long was near a house with a phone.

"But I realized you're not always going to be that close. It bothered me because seconds may count, and you'd like to be able to do everything you can. I got one within a week," he said.

Long hasn't had reason to use the phone in an emergency situation since then. But he said it's reassuring to know it's there, if needed.

Long is currently working in New Hampshire, and has the area's emergency phone numbers handy.

The family of Ron Snider of West Bethel gave him a phone at Thanksgiving. He keeps it close by in his truck at logging sites.

"I work alone a lot," he said.

Don Bennett of Bethel bought a cellular phone a year ago. He uses it to check in regularly with his son, Mike, for reasons of both safety and convenience.

In one instance, he said, "We were working alone in Andover, and we'd check in at lunch. It's good to have when you're moving equipment, too."

Bennett said he knows of several other loggers in the area who have cellular phones, and he thinks the number will continue to grow.

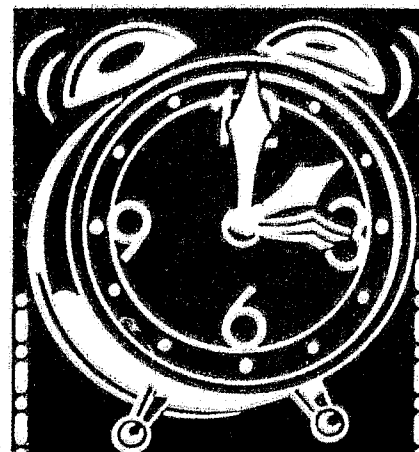

Salesman Mark Thomas is the U.S. Cellular representative for Oxford County. He said he is selling more and more phones to independent loggers, as well as paper companies.

A cellular phone helped one log-

Brown, Thibodeau leaving board

BETHEL--Long-time SAD44 director John Brown of Bethel announced last week he will not seek reelection to the seat in which he has served since 1970. His term ends in June. Brad Thibodeau of Andover ended six years of service on the board last week. He did not seek reelection in March. Rick Mills was elected to the seat.

Scheider, Danner join "Myth" cast

BETHEL--"The Myth of Fingerprints," a film by Bart Freundlich, began principal photography here Monday. The film stars Blythe Danner ("The Prince of Tides"), Roy Scheider ("Jaws"), Julianne Moore ("Nine Months"), James Le Gros ("Bad Boys") and Noah Wyle (NBC's "ER"). The cast also includes Arijia Bareikis, Hope Davis, Laurel Holloman and Michael Vartan. The film is a drama involving a New England family reunited for a Thanksgiving vacation. It is the writing and directorial debut of Freundlich. Mary Jane Skalsky and Tim Perrell are producers. Executive producers are Ted Hope and James Schamus. Stephen Kazierski is director of photography. The film, a Sony Pictures Classics release in the U.S., will be distributed internationally by Columbia Tri Star Video.

Brown awarded unemployment

BETHEL--Former Bethel Town Clerk Merton Brown has been granted state unemployment benefits. Following a fact-finding interview, an unemployment official concluded that Brown was fired for something done on his own time, outside of the work place. Brown was fired by Town Manager Madeleine Henley on Jan. 25. As her reasons for firing the 20-year veteran, Henley cited his New Hampshire shoplifting conviction and instances of alleged dishonesty in the Bethel Town Office. The Bethel Board of Selectmen later voted unanimously against granting Brown a severance package. Henley said Monday that the town's insurance provider has recommended hiring an attorney to contest the unemployment award, but that she had no plans to do so.

Board OK's traffic-study application

BETHEL--The Bethel Board of Selectmen has given approval for the town to submit a preliminary application for an MDOT grant program that would underwrite 80 percent of the cost of a town traffic and access study. The initial application is at no cost to the town (except for a few hours of planning assistant Nancy Schleiper's time). In a memo to the board, Schleiper said that MDOT "is looking for a community that hasn't been overbuilt to make a model for the state." The vote to approve the initial application was 3-1, with selectmen Dutch Dresser, Ruth Grover and John Thurston voting for the measure and Rick Whitney voting against it. Whitney objected to the possibility that the town would end up spending some of its money on such a study, and he said he felt that the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments (AVCOG), which is involved in the grant program, did not have sufficient respect for private property rights. Whitney was also the sole dissenter when the board voted Monday to place on the warrant for June's Town Meeting a number of housekeeping ordinance revisions proposed by the Planning Board.

Pew pleads not guilty

RUMFORD--Sid Pew of Andover pled not guilty Tuesday to charges of criminal trespass and obstructing government administration, according to a Rumford District Court official. Trial has been scheduled for May 7. The charges were the result of an incident in February at the Andover Town Office. Pew allegedly entered the file room over the objections of then-selectman Geri Gaudet.

NRCM wants more forest protection

AUGUSTA--The Natural Resources Council of Maine says it will endorse the citizen-initiated clearcutting referendum "on or before July 1, 1996, unless a stronger alternative is enacted before that time which is more protective of our forests' ecological and economic future." NRCM said it will continue to push the Forest Sustainability Council for strong forest protection. Gov. Angus King has directed the council to accelerate its effort to develop a solution to the problems in the North Woods. "We believe that, if the Governor cannot support the referendum, he has the responsibility, working with the Sustainability Council and the Legislature, to bring forth a stronger alternative to meet the public's requirement for sustainable forest management practices," said NRCM executive director Everett B. Carson.

New bike trek planned

AUGUSTA--The Lung Associations of Maine, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will kick off a brand new bicycle trek on August 9, according to Robert Verrill, Special Events Director for the American Lung Association of Maine. The ride, entitled "Trek the Maritimes," will follow a course from Digby, Nova Scotia to Prince Edward Island over the course of seven days and return to Maine on August 17. "This will be a challenging ride through some of the most beautiful country in the world," said Verrill. The Lung Association plans to accept only 50 applications for the ride. Funds raised through the trek will help the lung association continue their work to improve lung health in Maine. For more information call 1-800-458-6472.

Landfill reimbursements in question

AUGUSTA--An amendment to the FY97 state supplemental budget would eliminate state reimbursement to municipalities for landfill closure unless an agreement on closure or a compliance schedule was reached with the Department of Environmental Protection by Jan. 1, 1997, according to a report in the MMA's Legislative Bulletin. The sponsor of the amendment, Rep. Hugh Morrison (D-Bangor) has offered to change the deadline to January 1998, to allow more time to get agreements in place.

More time to fish in southern Maine

AUGUSTA--Southern Maine fishermen will have a longer fishing season this year than they have had in decades. The open-water season, which began Monday, will extend far into the fall for the first time on 20 lakes and ponds and seven rivers in southern Oxford, Cumberland and York counties. Some are open through October, while others are open to Nov. 30. While regulations are being relaxed in southern Maine, more restrictive regulations went into effect on about 600 waters statewide. The restrictions are intended to protect brook trout and allow more fish to grow to trophy size.

Roadside vendors pushed aside

DAMARISCOTTA--For years, roadside vendors selling produce, seafood, flowers and crafts have dotted Business Route 1, but that will change here when police begin enforcing an 11-year-old public vending ordinance. Selectmen have instructed the police chief to enforce the ordinance, which prohibits roadside sales from a parked car in the town's business district. The law, which was revised in the early 1990s, was enacted in June 1985. Its original intent was to keep vehicle-based vendors from taking up two-hour parking spaces on Main Street, Police Chief George Hutchings said. The ordinance was expanded to cover all of Business Route 1 -- a 3 1/2-mile-long stretch beginning at the Damariscotta-Newcastle Bridge and ending on the Nobleboro town line. Route 1 is exempt from the law. The ordinance still allows vendors to sell products from a building or farm stand. The growth along Business Route 1 and increased traffic prompted the selectmen to resurrect the ordinance, said Warren Hatch, the town's administrative assistant.

about where sixth-graders should be. Petitions asking to keep sixth-graders at the elementary schools have been circulated to local businesses. Here we go again. Why? Do we have a problem? Absolutely!

Specifically, they said the middle school should be a school of its own, as separate as possible from the high school and not taking second place to its needs, such as in staff scheduling and programs.

The schools currently share some staff members.

Marshall and Donovan said the school should have its own entrance, and an office more centrally located in the middle school.

They also said the teachers deserve a teachers' room, and should regularly be sent to conferences specifically geared to middle schools.

"Morale is extraordinarily low and must be addressed," they said in a March memo. "Support new programs, such as the advisor/advisee program, curriculum and technological innovations with staff development."

"We will not publicly speak about individuals. We are not willing to risk being misquoted by the press or risk slandering anyone. That is not our intention. What we care about is the kids," they said.

They said they spent "substantial time and energy meeting with Mr. Blackman and Mr. Jenkins over the past two school years," pursuing their concerns through the proper channels before going to the board.

Marshall and Donovan asked the board in early February to form a committee made up of staff, students, and community and board members to promote cooperation among them for the students' sake.

But at the Feb. 26 board meeting, directors voted against forming the committee. Some said the problem was ultimately a personnel issue to be handled by administration, rather than one requiring the work of a committee made up of and including board members.

Marshall and Donovan were also critical of Blackman, Supt. Ron Jenkins, and the Bethel Citizen regarding discussion at the meeting.

Some directors, Marshall and Donovan said, thought they had gone straight to the board without first pursuing their concerns with administrators.

Marshall and Donovan wrote in March, "Neither Mr. Blackman nor Mr. Jenkins spoke up at your Feb. 26 meeting to clarify that, in fact, we and other parents have gone to them with many questions, concerns and suggestions. We came to you having gone through those steps feeling the next step or level was needed."

"We are discouraged that the press does not usually present a complete picture. In fact many believe, after reading the Citizen Feb. 28, that we are involved in the petition asking for sixth grade to return to the elementary schools when, in fact nothing could be further from the truth."

Jenkins said at last week's board meeting that Marshall and Donovan had spoken with Blackman and himself before going to the board.

He also said that while some changes are needed at the school, the staff is an excellent one.

Blackman said Friday that plans were in the works to deal with the school problems prior to the women's memos, but their pressure had brought the issues more into focus.

The staff met last week to discuss specifics of the plan.

While Marshall and Donovan have still requested that the board reply to their concerns in early April -- as well as reconsider a middle school committee -- Donovan said they were encouraged by the school staff's progress.

From the Bethel Police log:

"Power turn" costs motorist

On March 30 at 12:05 a.m. police patrolling on Route 2 observed a vehicle do a power turn on the lawn at the Rostay Motor Inn. The officer stopped the vehicle before it could return to the road, and had the operator step out of the vehicle so he could see the damage he had done to the lawn. He was advised to contact the owner of the Rostay and get the cost of the damages. The matter had been cleared up when police checked with the Rostay owner later.

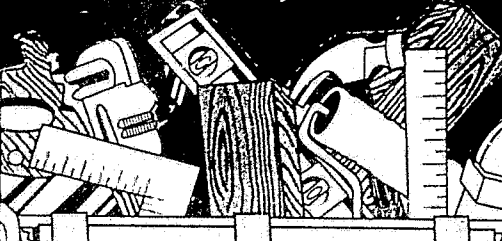

Thursday, March 28

At 2 p.m. a Route 2 resident reported she had a dog she believed had been chasing deer. The complainant had the animal locked in the garage. The warden service was contacted, and they advised to have the animal control officer pick up the dog and get statements from witnesses. The ACO told police later the complainant refused to complete a witness statement about the incident.

Friday, March 29

At 2:32 p.m. an officer on patrol saw a large amount of smoke in the area of West Bethel Village. It appeared to be surrounding areas of Newton & Tebbets and the Kendall Dowel Mills. The officer checked the mill yards, but could not locate the source of the smoke. He requested that the Bethel Fire Department be dispatched to help with the search. The officer then rechecked the yard and found a large outside wood-burning boiler -- the source of the smoke -- behind Kendall Dowel. It was functioning normally, and the Fire Department call was cancelled. Police later learned from the fire chief that the boiler produces large amounts of smoke at certain times.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

venience stores in underserved rural regions. CBDG-L stands for "cigarettes, beer, donuts, gas and lottery".

What Reno's not telling us

In an effort to understand the details of the money-laundering scheme, and to assess the degree of complicity local business might have in the national drug problem, The Citizen contacted a well-connected colleague at a Providence newspaper.

As a professional courtesy, the reporter agreed to see what she could learn.

"You've caught me at a good time," she said. "I've just completed a major enterprise -- an investigation of why Rhode Island is one of only two states in the country with a declining population. Turns out the cause was not infertility or out-migration; it was the number of people going into the Federal Witness Protection Program."

"But I'm not up to speed on the money-laundering angle," she admitted. "Let me check things out with my man Joey Bagadonuts and get back to you."

She did call back, and the tale she told was elegant in its simplicity, appalling in its implications.

Shooting up Maine

Joey -- he likes body-parts metaphors -- Joey says you've got to think of it like this. Those two roads are like the arteries in your arms. The mob takes all this drug money and shoots it up Route 1 in the summer. Route 26 in the winter. The dealers leave the cash in those little penny jars you see by the cash registers.

The shopkeepers dump the jars maybe a dozen times a day. Keep 10 percent of the take, and then use the rest of the money to pay inflated prices for goods from family-owned wholesalers.

"So the money goes up dirty, but comes back almost clean, filtered through the veins of mom-and-pop Maine businesses."

"The next step is the usual corporate phase of the money-laundering drill -- offshore banks, debentures and, finally, pork-belly futures."

"You know the risk in investing in pork-belly futures? Follow the pork-bellies."

The only thing Joey couldn't figure is why they picked an ugly, suicidal stretch of road like Route 26.

He said this kind of laundering scheme can only exist when the businesses are doing enough volume to mask the extra money -- so Route 1 in the summer makes sense, but who in their right mind wants to dodge pulp trucks on Route 26 in the winter?

"Joey thought maybe you got some kind of winter tourist attraction up there? Something he could send the wife off to for a few weeks?"

"Yeah," I said (ever eager to push the local product), "out in Newry there's a covered bridge or something. Thanks for your help."

Dirty laundry?

Or just good business?

Armed now with some idea of how the laundering scheme worked, we set out to confront a local store owner.

But to our surprise, we found the proprietor of Mart's Mega-Mini Mart unashamed and more than willing to talk.

When we arrived he was busy supervising the spring flushing of the dairy-and-worms cooler.

The dirty money is shot up into rural Maine, where it is cleansed in the lifeblood of mom-and-pop commerce

"Pork bellies, smork bellies!" he snorted. "I'll tell you what this is. This is just one more attempt by Washington to drive a stake through the heart of the American small businessman."

"What do those damn socialists know about meeting a payroll? The penny jar thing was just a simple business arrangement."

"It was good for the local economy and it was only drug money, so it's not like anyone was being hurt."

"The feds are also attacking a time-honored Maine tradition. Skimming the penny jar was a accepted small-business survival tactic long before the wiseguys moved in."

The state, he claimed, knew all about the older, simpler form of the scam, but looked the other way because its own hands were far from clean.

"I mean it they can run their Tri-State Megamart, we certainly should be able to skim a bit of small change for ourselves," he said.

"We weren't taking big money back then," he said. "But customers always put in more change than they took out, so a well-managed penny jar could add maybe 2.3 percent to your gross. For some businesses that was half their profit margin."

The anchovy connection

"Then in '91, the wiseguys came into the picture -- making us an offer we couldn't refuse. Totally win-win."

"Not only do we grow the penny-jar profit margin, but we get deep discount prices on the mozzarella and technical help with the pizza."

"You've noted, of course, the recent improvement in the local pizza product. A few years ago it would have been a charity to call it 'tomato soup on bread.' Now, I hear one of these yuppie places is even offering anchovies."

"You know," he said reflectively, "this crime business is just a matter of bad public relations. If the mob had only run some of those syrupy, feel-good TV commercials -- like the paper companies do -- we wouldn't be having this conversation."

Nightmare news reports scare off tourists, even truckers. The federal indictments were only the latest blow to Route 26 defend herself if the Martians land again?"

Media headlines hype problems

The local turf wars were troubling enough, but as usual the press managed to make a bad situation worse.

The liberal Boston media -- seeing an opportunity to push its gun-control agenda -- made the local skirmishing sound like Braveheart.

Front-page stories (with sensationalized headlines) described western Maine residents and tourists being terrorized by roving, bandoleered bands of out-of-work, nuclear-tipped MSWs.

Delirious from grant-withdrawal, the therapists were reported to be rounding up innocent civilians and subjecting them to marathon coercive-counseling sessions.

The sessions would end only when the counselees broke through denial and admitted to some com-businesses.

Image and access are the key element in marketing a tourist destination, and over the past year the road had been hit hard on both counts.

First came the infamous article in "New England Journeys," a glossy put out by the AAA. The writer slurred the Maine woods as "third growth, fourth rate, and little better than a scrub-choked industrial wasteland."

"If you want to see big trees and beautiful woods," he urged travelers, "go to the Berkshires."

Then came the floods that closed the road, the oil spill, the outbreak of mad hen disease, and finally last summer fat the height of the tourist season the hurricanes thrown up by turbulent social service agencies.

The turf wars were especially frightening, coming as they did only weeks after the U.S. House of Representatives passed an NRA-sponsored bill guaranteeing citizens the right to possess tactical nuclear weapons.

"Hey," said one of Maine's top businessmen, "if the logic applies to assault weapons, why not to nukes?"

The vote was expected to be close, but the issue was decided when a congressman from rural New York emotionally accused the anti-nuke side of leaving women helpless and vulnerable.

"My wife is home alone five nights a week," he said, his finger rubbing and his voice shaking with anger. "How is he expected to pulsion, taboo taste or repressed abuse that qualified for Medicaid reimbursement."

Soon only hard-core masochists (no, it's not covered) were daring to venture up Route 26.

Upscale businesses also hurt

The road woes were a major worry for Bingo Green, a Riley native who had moved back to the area after making his fortune in international consulting.

Over the past year Green had invested $5 million to convert the former Col. Dyke Airfield into northern New England's largest recreational vehicle sales and service facility.

"My dream was that The Training Center Trading Center would create dozens of jobs, and other Rileyites could afford to move back," he said.

"We made a big gamble when we made our buying decisions at last winter's trade show," he said. "We put all our chips upmarket. No plastic, price-point compromises for us."

"But upmarket folks won't have anything to do with this mob messugas."

"I'm scared to death we're going to be stuck with all this pricey inventory," Green said, pointing to acres of shiny silver fuselages.

"Every one of these babies comes equipped with your standard Marin County necessity package," he said. "Your Starship-Enterprise captain's deck, your Jacuzzi, your internet-ready digital dish antenna,

"Needless to say," he said, "they all have the federally mandated 35-mph governor and left-wheels-on-the-centerline guidance system."

"But what makes each model truly special is the accessorizing."

"Take this baby, Model B29 -- 'The Jarrell.' Check out those over-and-under, turret-mounted camcorders."

"You and the missus can climb in any one of these beauties, travel 2,000 miles across the country, really 'do' a tourist target, and return home -- all without ever setting foot on the ground."

"But, hey, no market, no money. Now I'm probably going to have to freight all this inventory back to Framingham."

"Thank God for the trains."

Return of the natives?

As we left the RV center, the gondola from Bethel Station whirled softly overhead.

It was hard, in the fading twilight, not to think Reno's announcement was only the final nail in the coffin for Route 26, that its fate had already been sealed by the march of technology -- and by the return of a century-old technology.

Tourists from Boston, New York, Bayonne and beyond could now take trains all the way to Bethel Station, then just hop aboard the gondola to That Place -- all without driving a mile on Penny Lane or any other Maine road.

The glory days of free-spending Beemers, Jeeps, Range Rovers, Accuras and Lexi would soon be only a memory.

With the autos of affluence vanished, Route 26 would be a much diminished thing.

Perhaps, though, there is a bright side to this story.

Perhaps one day soon Grandpa could once again go out to the barn on a winter's Saturday, load a week's worth of trash into the pickup, then head to the dump at 20 miles per hour -- without posing a threat to himself and others.

Perhaps town correspondents for The Bellyache could report that folks have unplugged their modems and begun to visit again on winter weekends.

Perhaps one day soon groggy-eyed working people could set out to the mill, office, shop or woods without having to pass before the petulant scowls of America's finest youth, exhausted from trying to use their snowboards to dig Mom's 4WD sports utility vehicle out of a roadside snowbank.

Perhaps horse-drawn sleighs would reappear on Route 26, their bells tinkling merrily, all the way from Shaker Hill to the Sunday River Excess Road.

Draft! Got almost all the way through without having to use the "SR" words. Try harder next year!

opposed to hiring a town manager, but now he felt the move was a wise one.

The town-manager candidate chosen by the selectmen was Elizabeth Lavelle, a town administrative assistant from West Stockbridge, Mass.

Lavelle told the meeting she was originally from Vermont, and "coming to Maine is like going back to my roots."

She said she wanted to fit in usefully to Greenwood, not to change it. "I have no highfaluting ideas, and I hope that I can help the selectmen with all the paperwork and everyday problems a town can have."

Prior to the two votes, Phyllis Coolidge, who had served as town clerk for 28 years, told the meeting she had resigned and found another job.

Monument stones stay

While voters were willing to break from tradition in structuring their town government, they stuck with tradition in the matter of the town's veterans' memorial.

The current monument is constructed of fieldstones and mortar, with a granite facing for the names of town veterans.

The structure needs repair and expansion, and the town's Monument Committee has recommended that it be replaced with a similar structure.

A competing suggestion called for replacing the monument with an all-granite structure, which would be more permanent and require less maintenance.

However, the majority of voters Saturday indicated firmly they wanted to stick with a stones-and-mortar structure.

Gordon Morgan has volunteered the labor for building a new monument, and at Saturday's meeting an additional $5,000 was authorized for the project, bringing the total available to $10,000.

Budget OKed

The remaining monetary articles in the warrant were all approved as presented by the selectmen, most with little or no discussion.

The only change made by voters was to take $100 that had been requested by the now-defunct Safer Families agency and add the money to the $50 requested by Project Graduation.

Bartlett reelected

First selectman Marie Bartlett was reelected to another three-year term, easily defeating (66-25) a challenge from Gordon Morgan.

Three SAD44 school directors were elected: Ray Harrington (three-year term), Brad Payne (two years) and Kim Roak (one year).

Greenwood Town Office changes

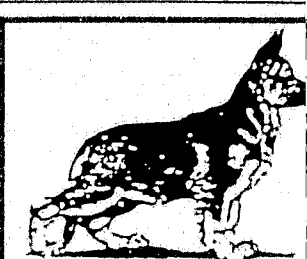

Elizabeth Lavelle is expected to begin work as Greenwood's first town manager next week to 10 days.

Selectman Marie Bartlett Monday that former West town clerk Paula Perham had been hired as temporary town clerk to cover the office while Lavelle takes over.

Perham will be able to perform most town-office tasks, Bartlett said, including collecting taxes, but for the time being vehicle license plates must be picked up at either the Bethel or Woodstock town offices.

Bartlett recommended that one with questions regarding services available at the Town Office call ahead.

The Greenwood Town Office is now open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays except Wednesdays.

Thompson said MacCulloch, who was appointed by selectmen when Marie Aron resigned Dec. 31, will not seek election to the positions.

Thompson said Scribner is seeking office again, but he did not know of official candidates for the remaining offices.

Former selectman and assessor Richard LeComte said Friday he might run for the selectman's seat.

LeComte resigned the assessor's position last fall, following a dispute with Thompson over a property assessment issue.

An article regarding compensation for the tax collector would establish the pay at $155 per month, if approved.

Another article asks if voters "want a written agreement by the road commissioner or other employees of the town to return all town properties to the town at the end of their term, resigning, retiring; also in case of fire, accident with equipment, town selectmen will make the decisions with the insurance company."

The meeting starts at 10 a.m. at the municipal building.

Loggers

ger in the Rangeley area, Thomas said. The man was able to call an ambulance after having pinned his knee against a tree in an accident.

"He was 10 miles into the woods," Thomas said.

Loggers are not the only ones taking the phones into remote areas, according to Thomas. There are guides, snowmobilers, and ski patrolmen who also have cellular phones.

Rick Young of Woodstock, who grooms snowmobile trails at night, just started carrying a phone this year.

"I've used it five times this season, when the groomer broke down. When it's 20 below and the wind is howling, you could walk a long time to find someone," he said.

Even discounting the elements, Young said, "Most people won't open their door to a stranger at 11 or 11:30 at night."

In the past, he used two-way radios, but found they could not always be relied upon.

"Twice last year the groomer broke down -- once two miles away from the nearest house, and once 1.5 miles. The first time, no one had a radio on, and the second time, no one was around to hear it," he said.

Now if he gets in trouble, he can call his wife on the phone and arrange a meeting place.

Young said he does not know of any area snowmobilers who carry the phones as they ride the trails.

But two women hiking on Moody Mountain near Andover last summer had a phone with them -- and it helped bring about a quick rescue when one of them broke her ankle.

"They called the bed and breakfast where they were staying, and they called Andover Rescue," said warden Rick Mills.

The phone saved the injured woman's companion a long hike back for help.

Mills sees the phones as an asset, as long as people don't abuse them.

Some saw it as abuse last year when a couple hiking in the White Mountain National Forest called to say the man was suffering from hypothermia.

Rescuers were dispatched, only to get a call back from the woman saying her companion felt better and there was no need for rescue.

A true wilderness experience?

While sportsmen may gain a sense of security by bringing along a cellular phone, others think it comes at a price.

"Are you really getting away from it all if your phone is in your pack?" asked Steve Wight, owner of Newry's Sunday River Inn and Cross Country Ski Center.

Snowmobiler Sylvia Gray of Newry agrees. "What's this world coming to?" she said.

What some might see as an extreme use for cellular phones was described by U.S. Cellular sales associate Laura Grimm of Auburn.

She said a bear hunter in northern Maine uses phones on the hunt. "He calls the other hunters and tells them he has one in sight," she said.

Still, safety seems to be the prime consideration for taking a cellular phone into the woods, Grimm said.

"Fear," she said, "is a big seller."

Need More Time To File Your Tax Return?

There are a number of reasons for not filing your tax return by April 15. Some people have financial transactions or joint ventures which may be difficult to summarize by the April 15 deadline. Others simply don't get their tax data pulled together in time to file by April 15.

To avoid penalties for filing later than April 15, you must file for an extension of time. You do this by filing Form 4868 with the IRS by April 15, 1996. Your extension request will automatically be granted by the IRS; you need not state a reason for requesting the additional time to file. The form asks you to estimate your tax liability for 1995, and, if you can, you should pay the balance of any tax still owed. But if you cannot pay the balance due when you file the extension, the additional time will still be granted, and you will not be assessed a late filing penalty. The extension does not, however, eliminate the assessment of a late payment penalty, if applicable, or the interest charges on any tax not paid with the extension request. The current interest rate for underpayment of tax is 9%. A monthly late payment penalty of 1/2 of 1% of the unpaid taxes will be assessed if you still owe more than 10% of your actual tax liability when you do file your return.

The automatic extension period is from April 15 to August 15. Additional time beyond that may be obtained by filing a request for a second extension, but this request requires that you state the reason for the delay. The second (and final) extension runs to October 15.

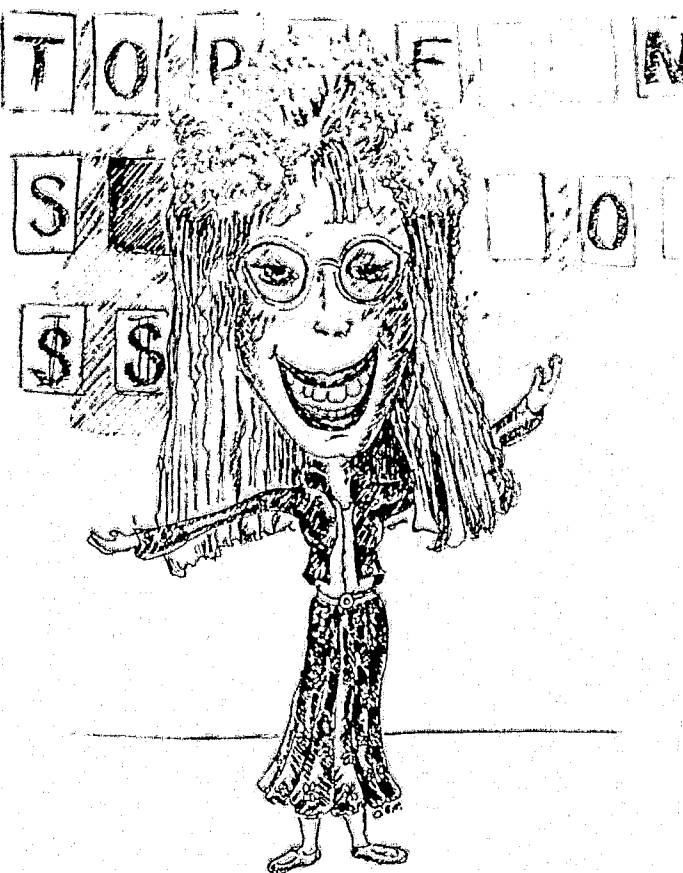

The rules for extending the filing date of state tax returns vary from state to state. If you need an extension, check on the rules for the states in which you will be required to file.

Goodbye March -- Hello April! Bring on the showers, we want our flowers.

I found a new friend, or should I say my friend found me. It's my broom. With mud season here, it's sweep x 3.

First, I'd like to wish everyone a Happy Easter! I hope April 1st didn't find you a fool. Last April Food's Day, I told my sister Lisa that a hungry bear just waking from hibernation approached me as I stood on a stepladder in front of the store. I explained that I had to stand on the very top because the bear kept coming. At this point in the story, my sister was dead silent listening carefully, anticipating the worst. Then I told her the bear opened its mouth and growled "April Fools!"

This is the time of year when we usually see a few black, furry critters truckin' down Route 26 or visiting Upton's front/back porches in search for garbage.

The Upton Trading Post fell victim to a forgery last week. See Amy's write-up in the local section of the Bethel Citizen.

Looking forward to seeing smelters soon! One local reports that pussy willows have blossomed -- yeah!!

Town Meeting is scheduled for Saturday, April 6, 10 a.m.

Hi readers! I've done it again! I've walked a mile. This time I was with me. Love weather!

There were 16 people at Firemen's meeting Tuesday night. Discussion was held at Firemen's public supper on April 5 to 7 p.m. at the Fire Station. Albert won a bet the meeting about keeping which was hard to believe but it.

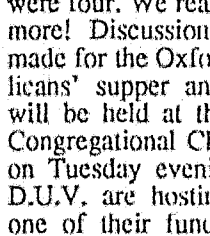

Frances Grant has sold her cows this past week. It's hard to love animals go, but these have to be done at some point.

Our sympathy goes out to the family of Ed Muskie who died recently. He was a much respected person.

Our sympathy and thoughts go to the family of Martin T. H. Bridgton, who died on March 27 after a long illness. He was a son of Lani Thompson of Stoneham.

Iva Fox is at home now after with Steve and Susan Fox and hospital a few days. Fred Fox been away to Arizona for a few on vacation.

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Hannah Richardson Tent 19, met on Tuesday evening at the church for a short business meeting. There were three members and the were four. We really had a more! Discussion and plans made for the Oxford County Veterans' supper and meeting will be held at the East Stoneham Congregational Church UCC on Tuesday evening, April 9. D.U.V. are hosting this supper one of their fund raisers.

Hi readers, I've done it again -- walked a mile. This time the crows hollered at me. Love this weather!

There were 16 people at the Firemen's meeting Tuesday evening. Discussion was held about the Firemen's public supper on April 6, 5 to 7 p.m. at the Fire Station. See you there. Albert won a bet during the meeting about keeping still, which was hard to believe but he did it.

Frances Grant has sold her two cows this past week. It's hard to let loved animals go, but these things have to be done at some point in life.

Our sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Ed Muskie, who died recently. He was a smart and much respected person.

Our sympathy and thoughts go out to the family of Martin T. Harju of Bridgton, who died on March 22 after a long illness. He was a brother to Lani Thompson of Stoneham.

Iva Fox is at home now after being with Steve and Susan Fox and in the hospital a few days. Fred Fox has been away to Arizona for a few days on vacation.

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19, met here Wednesday evening at the church vestry for a short business meeting. There were three members and then there were four. We really had wished for more! Discussion and plans were made for the Oxford County Republicans' supper and meeting which will be held at the East Stoneham Congregational Church UCC vestry on Tuesday evening, April 9. The D.U.V. are hosting this supper as one of their fund raisers. We appreciate the opportunity to do this. The D.U.V. are also having an inside yard sale and bake sale at the church on May 4 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Come see what we have.

The Easter Sunrise Service will be held at 6 a.m. in the parsonage yard followed by a breakfast at the North Waterford Church. Regular services will be at the Stoneham Church.

It is interesting to live where one can watch wildlife. I have observed so many strange things about animals since I have lived here. All of them exist under natural conditions. They are not tame or pets. Their habits and activities provide me with entertainment, knowledge and pleasure. I have windows that face in all directions, so they are easy to see.

For example the gray squirrels. They have been matching wits with me for many years, like playing a game of checkers, and they have been the winner. I have put feeders on limbs, ropes, poles and other places, but a squirrel always manages to find a way to eat the seed. I remember one place in particular, when the squirrel couldn't reach the seeds, but it sat and studied the situation for a long time. I could almost see it think. Then in a flash it made a leap and hurled itself against the feeder spilling out the seeds. Then it went underneath to eat. When they were gone, it went back to repeat the stunt. Each day that I moved the feeder it would climb higher to get a more powerful leap. The game of checkers was on again. I made a move. Squirrel made a move. Last summer I finally won. I placed my feeder on a metal pole away from any jumping distance.

Then I covered the pole with baby oil. What a surprise squirrel received! It gave a mighty leap and "whoosh" down it slid. Mad, it was! With another and another try but found out this time that I had won. Now they seldom try; they eat what I give to them from on the ground.

Another day an even more surprising and much smaller creature, I looked out upon. A black and brown caterpillar was crawling over a drift of snow. I looked at the thermometer and found that the mercury was eight degrees below the freezing mark. The sun was bright and there was no wind. From time to time I saw the creeping creature curl up and turn on its side. It stayed that way for several minutes, looking like a tiny doughnut on the snow. I'm sure it liked the warmth of the sun.

Those are only two of the many strange happenings. To mention briefly there was a crow pulling earthworms from the lawn, as a robin does, a chipmunk carrying leaves, a nuthatch and a chipmunk having a battle, a red squirrel fighting a phantom rival leaping at the basement windows, a mother gray squirrel carrying her babies one by one across my lawn from a duck house by the pond. There are others but too numerous to write here.

"The life and conversation of animals is truly interesting," as one naturalist said.

Leonas came home from the hospital after a four-day stay and is doing well.

On Thursday, the "Tired" teachers went to the "Cole Farm" for lunch, then to Ledgewood in North Windham to visit Doris Hayes, who was one of the group before she moved away. Dot Betts drove us there and we had a very pleasant day.

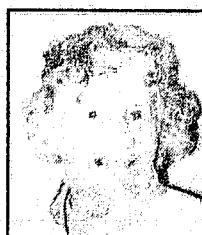

Leland Betts visited Dot over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and daughter Jenny of Windsaw visited Leonas and Fay Holt on Sunday. David and Ann were also there.

My robin came for a short call on last Monday. It perched on my ash tree and sang a song, then it flew. It brought hope.

At this time most of the snow is gone from my lawn. The moles have taken over. What a lot of them there are this year.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

The Newry Mothers Club will meet Monday night, April 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Building. Catherine Newell, Adult Education director, will be the speaker for the night. Anyone who is interested in learning about it, please come, you are very welcome. Refreshments will be served by Karlene Bachelder and Nancy Wight.

Karlene and Ras Bachelder received word last Thursday, March 21, that their granddaughter, Michelle Josephson, delivered a new baby boy on the 20th. (Their great-grandchild.) This makes it the sixth for Ras and Karlene, but the first for Michelle and husband Paul. So, the Bachelders took to the road on Saturday, the 23rd, (I went along, too) to Cumberland where the Josephsons have just bought a new home. Paul says it was a busy week. Claire Romano (the new grandmother) was there from California, although she missed the delivery -- she was there to change a few diapers! and take some photos!

Call to Worship on Sunday, March 24 at 9 a.m., was held at Owen and Sue Wight's, with Pastor Rodney Hanscom, wife Katherine, daughter Nancy, Bill and Sylvia Wight and Melissa, Freda Robertson and Gil Seeley present. The Message of the Day was: "Hope for the Hopeless," from Romans 1:12: "That is, that I may be comforted together with you by the mutual faith both of you and me." And a special was given by Gil from Psalm 46:10 and Psalm 91:1: "Be still and know that I am God," and find freedom from life's troubles. Services will be at the Newry Community Church from now on. Everyone is welcome.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell (who is back from her vacation in Florida) and Olive Anderson, all members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. Jim Anderson was a guest. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on both the singles and triples. She had four spares, Gil also had four spares, Karlene had two spares and Bea had one spare.

"Briefly" -- The Bachelders saw a couple of robins in their yard one day last week! Also, my cat caught her first mouse of the season the same day. Spring must be here!

Well, Monday was April Fool Day. Did you make a fool of yourself? How about a few foolish quotes? "Even a fool is wise after the event." Fools to talking ever prone, are sure to make their follies known. "Thou little thinkest what a little foolery governs the whole world." "Even politicians fool the people most of the time."

Happy Birthday to "Tootsie," on the 4th, and Olive Anderson on the 5th. "I love everything that is old -- old friends, old times, old manners, old books, old wine."

Howdy, friends. Another week has passed and we are supposedly having spring now, but I liked those warm days before spring got here. However, the weather is one of the many things over which we have little control.

The West Paris Grange will hold their spring Craft, Food and White Elephant Sale at their hall on May 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The price for renting a table remains at $3, and to reserve a table call Peggy Blake at 674-3872 or Mary Lovejoy at 674-2147. The Cookie Walk will again be featured.

Don't forget the Franklin Grange-Locke Mills Legion Benefit Supper for Nadja Bolio, to be held at the Legion Hall on April 9 at 5:30 p.m. The price will be $5 for adults and less for children. After the supper there will be several hours of dancing with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on April 6, with more of that good music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

Kathleen Holden has been a recent caller of the Lovejoys.

Callers at the Lovejoy home on Monday were Stanley and Priscilla Jasud, also Louie Marcotte from Rumford.

Alan Lovejoy of South Paris was a caller on Wednesday.

Thursday callers there were Wayne and Kim Emmons of South Paris, also Christine Berube from Revere, Mass.

Sunday, the Lovejoy family picked up Helena Bartlett at the Bethel House and then continued on a trip up into New Hampshire to shop and sightsee. One thing they did see in Gorham was a large woodchuck as he meandered across a field.

Last Monday evening was a potluck supper and meeting at Franklin

Friday afternoon, Peggy met with other members of a committee, at Locke Mills Legion Hall, to plan the Nadja Bolio Benefit Supper that will be held April 9. The Bolios had no insurance to help pay for Nadja's recent hospital and doctors' expenses, and Franklin Grange and Locke Mills American Legion have combined forces in putting on this supper and dance. There will be a large variety of food to choose from, and after supper there will be several hours of dancing, all for a $5 ticket.

Friday evening, Peggy attended the Mary Kay party at the home of Bertha Benoit in West Paris. These products help the ladies to look more beautiful.

Saturday forenoon, we took the pie Peggy had baked the day before and met our niece, Wynona Woolf, at the Oxford Grange Hall.

Peggy and Doc Merrill attended the dance at the Locke Mills Town Hall Saturday evening.

Our visitors yesterday afternoon were Michael and Wynona Woolf and daughters from Auburn. They had eaten at the new Bonanza Restaurant in Oxford, then came here to return Peggy's pie plates and to visit. They reported that their benefit supper wasn't as well attended as they had hoped for.

Peggy did a lot of soliciting by phone last evening. She was soliciting food to help at the Franklin Grange cake Mills American Legion Benefit Supper for Nola Bonita. A large attendance is hoped for.

Change at Bryant Pond. We went there to make sure everything would be ready. The meeting was postponed by the rain. Peggy and Doc Merrill went to the meeting at Bryant Pond.

We visited with the family at the home of the late Mrs. Mary Ann Grange. She had a short illness, but she is now back. She is better, but still needs a lot of rest.

Area students participate in Gould Four Points activities

Gould Academy students recently completed the annual week-long Four Points Program, taking their education outside of the traditional classroom setting. Area freshmen Christopher Brooks, Sarah Crocker, Jon Early, Sarah Paul, and Jenny Wheeler, all of Bethel, spent the week with their entire class on a cultural tour of three eastern Canadian cities: Ottawa, Toronto, and Montreal. The trip was highlighted by visits to Ottawa's National Gallery, the Canadian side of Niagara Falls, and the Biodome and botanical gardens in Montreal.

Members of the sophomore class, including local students Caitlin Bass, Katie Chapman, Teri Chadbourne, E.J. Cheney, Brett Harvey, Betsey Kuzyk, and Marcy LaVallee of Bethel, Rebecca Fraser of Newry, John Horne and Lindsay Richardson of Albany, Nathaniel Thibodeau of East Andover, and Laurie Young of Bryant Pond, worked with Habitat for Humanity at centers in Portland, Lawrence, Mass., or Hartford, Conn., helping to build and renovate affordable housing for families who have been unable to find financing.

The junior class, including Cathy Morgan and Amos Hausman-Rogers of Albany, B.J. Otten of Newry, and Ian Paquette and Eric Rackliffe of Bethel, headed into the woods for the traditional eight-day mountaineering course, taught by trained Gould faculty members. Winter survival skills, navigating, snowshoeing, and sleeping in the Mahosuc and White Mountains wilderness have been taught as part of the junior Four Point experience for 12 consecutive years.

This year's senior class chose to stay together on campus for the week, and worked on several community projects. Anneliese Bass, Bonnie Crocker, Erin Kailey, Charles Mason IV, Amanda Sysko, and Andrea Taylor of Bethel, Jarrod Crockett of Locke Mills, Hillary Harrison of Albany, Darby Hickey of Bryant Pond, and Toji Periman of West Paris, together with the other members of their class, volunteered in classrooms at Crescent Park School, worked on a mural project in Gould's Hanscom Hall, began renovations to a student lounge, and served a luncheon to area senior citizens as part of their week of community service.

better but far from being in tip-top health.

We had a busy day on Thursday. In the forenoon, I made and frosted a cherry-nut cake to take to West Paris Grange for judging that evening. I do very little baking these days so it takes a lot of time to accomplish what I want to do.

Thursday afternoon, we went down street to do errands and get our weekly supply of groceries. We got home after 4 p.m., had supper, and then went to West Paris Grange meeting. Our Grange deputies, Lewis and Myrtle Bisbee of Mechanic Falls, were with us for instruction there. Draping of the altar and hallways were both done as there is always instruction needed when doing these.

When it came to the making of the new altar cloth, I lost out. Louie Macdonald of Rutherford was the winner and will have to make another one to be judged at Oxford Plains. I will try again at the next meeting.

Workshops will run the same from now on. Personal growth and spiritual. Any man attending is welcome to attend a workshop.

Recycling is a must. We have a recycling bin in the back yard.

MEN'S RETREAT

Men from all over Western Maine and Northern New Hampshire will gather for a retreat the weekend of May 10-12 at the Maine Conservation School in Bryant Pond.

The retreat will be the first sponsored by Western Mountains Men, a men's group in the Farmington area. Enrollment is limited to 50 men.

Similar gatherings have been held for several years in Southern Maine and in Mid Coast Maine.

The retreat will begin with supper on Friday, May 10, and will conclude with a candle service Sunday afternoon, May 12. Men attending will participate in the fellowship activities, workshops, recreational activities, and the operation of the event.

Workshops will cover the areas of personal growth and spiritual. Any man attending is welcome to attend a workshop.

Registration is a first come, first served basis. Enrollment cost is $150.00. Transportation is provided. Lunch and dinner are included. For more information, contact the Maine Conservation School at 207-833-2100.

For more information or to request an enrollment brochure, contact Espahbad Dodd (Farmington) 778-6550, Den Corrin (Bryant Pond) 665-2284 or Andrew Pied (Skowhegan) 474-7553.

DRIVING DYNAMICS COURSE

A Maine Driving Dynamics Course is scheduled for Bethel in April. Classes will be held at Telstar High School on Monday and Wednesday evenings, April 22 and 24, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Instructor Eddy Naples said that those completing the course will receive a three point credit on their driving record. Students must register in advance by calling the Adult Education office at 824-2780.

The Maine Driving Dynamics Course covers accident-avoidance techniques which are essential for everyday driving situations with time, discussion, discussion, and practice.

BRETT HARVEY TAKES MAISAD SKI CROWN

With the season completed and the final scores tallied, Gould Academy's Brett Harvey '98, son of Joe and Susan Harvey of Bethel, was named the overall boys' varsity champion of the Maine Independent School (MAISAD) Ski League.

Brett posted one first-place finish, three seconds, one third, and one fifth over the course of the season to earn 94 points, four points ahead of Gould's Jamie Harlow and Hebron Academy's Ben Rifkin. A total of 49 boys from seven schools were ranked in the final standings, with Gould Academy athletes taking five of the top 10 places.

An honor-roll student, Harvey played on Gould's league champion junior varsity soccer team in the fall.

Parent conference slips have gone home and should be returned to school this week. Conferences are being held on April 22 from 3:30 to 7 p.m. This is different from previous conferences which were held in one afternoon and evening. Children will be in school all day, and it will count as one make-up storm day. Teachers will be meeting on Tuesday morning, April 9, to draw up the schedule. Be sure and let us know which day, and approximately what time is best for you. We will schedule brothers and sisters close together.

The last Scholastic Book Fair of the season will be held during the conference days, and will be open to the students during the day, and for all during the evening. For the last fair of the year we always offer the option of buy one, get one free. It will be a great time to stock up on summer reading.

April is also the RIF (Reading is Fundamental) Read-a-thon. Three or four times a year students receive free books from the RIF program. The Read-a-thon is one way of funding the program. So don't be surprised if you are asked to sponsor a West Paris reader.

Tuesday, April 9, is also the next parent-teacher volunteer meeting. We are getting ready to spend money on playground equipment, so try to attend this meeting.

Many thanks are being sent to our parents who are volunteering their time one morning a week to act as a crossing guard when children come to school in the morning. For the months of March and April our thanks and appreciation go to Charlene Herrick, Karen Bailey, Jennifer Libby, Raynah Heath and Lori Grass.

Classroom news this week: The kindergarten class has finished their number books, but are continuing to practice writing numbers and working on number concept. They have almost finished all the letters of the alphabet. The first-graders had lots of visitors this week. Mrs. Sheila Delameter from the Enchanted Florist spoke to the class about the proper care of seedlings and plants, and helped the children plant seeds. Mr. Grigsby, our home school counselor, visited and read a story to the class. Mr. and Mrs. Newmeyer brought bluebird houses for everyone in the room and one for the Legion Memorial School. They also brought one up to the big school. What neat gifts! Many, many thanks from all of us.

Tim Paul was the star of the week in grade two. Mrs. Loper is using Easter and other spring activities in math. They are using the class store to buy fancy materials to decorate colored eggs and baskets for the April pattern, as well as estimating and making pictographs. The third grade is beginning a unit on pioneers with help from special guests, the Tinsley family. They are also learning about fractions with help from their sixth-grade buddies, who are showing them about fractional relationships with pattern blocks.

Mrs. Koskela's fourth-graders are working on a free-choice writing and are beginning to do some peer editing. Both classes are reading a class theme book called "The Secret Moose" by Jean Rogers, and both classes are working on multiplication in math.

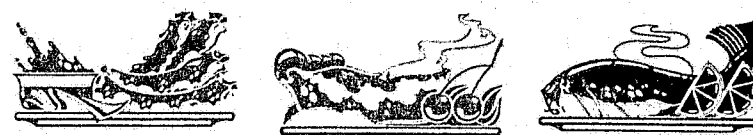

My fifth-graders are learning the poem, "The Village Blacksmith," by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. They are also working hard to finish up writing and reading assignments before grades close for this quarter.

The sixth-graders are adding their congratulations to classmate Jacob Mallory, who recently received the Heroism Award of the Boy Scouts of America. Jacob is a good writer, and last year in fifth grade he wrote about saving his friend from drowning. This was a well-deserved award. Jacob and the rest of the sixth-grade class have enjoyed some "Bill Nye, the Science Guy" video tapes which go along with their study of the body systems.

All classes are working hard to finish up this ranking period, and everyone is looking forward to April vacation the week of April 15.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

The next day, the one after Preparation Day, the chief priests and the Pharisees went to Pilate, "Sir," they said, "we remember that while he was still alive that deceiver said, 'After three days I will rise again.'" Matthew 27:62 and 63.

In his book, "Jesus, An Interview Across Time," Dr. Andrew Hodges conducts an imaginary with the most influential person in history, Jesus Christ. As a psychologist and a Christian, Dr. Hodges leads Jesus through a variety of questions concerning the most provocative and challenging topics from His life and teachings.

As they discuss Jesus' resurrection, Dr. Hodges remarks about the worry of Jesus' enemies that someone would steal the body and Pilate's subsequent order that the stone be sealed and guarded to prevent it from happening. Jesus then remarks, "It wouldn't have made any difference to them if they had watched me walk out of the grave. They weren't going to believe me, no matter what."

It is the same thing today -- there are people who will do anything to deny Christ's resurrection. Some of them even spend years writing books about how it couldn't have happened, or casting lots in some dreary conference room to decide if He really said what the Bible claims. Some of them rely on crystals, horoscopes, or psychics in a futile attempt to learn the secrets of the universe. Some deny Christ's existence at all -- and if they admit He lived, well then, He really wasn't the Son of God. But there are those for whom the glory of Easter morning carries a special message of hope, victory, and deliverance. There are those for whom Christ's message has not fallen on deaf ears, but who have found within themselves the wisdom to seek out Christ. There are those who have found that the truly divine can never be discovered through the filter of intellect, or in the bottom of a tea cup, or through incantations or personal endeavor. There are those who have found the truth: that the divine may only be seen when viewed through a heart washed clean by the Savior's blood.

When the stone was rolled away to reveal that He wasn't there, the door to heaven was swung wide for all who would accept Him and enter in. And all the denial in the world can't change that even one bit.
